Infinity is running through all our veins ~ be in tune with nature.

'Why is Shiva Valley the Temple of Trance?' > Nataraj in Despair!

To maintain the unique energy of a place people usually abide by the customs for example, taking your shoes off before entering a temple or mosque, being silent, wearing a shawl ~ We are taught these as forms of respect especially as foreigners and thereby we enter into the correct spirit of the place. Women are admonished for wearing bikinis on the beach whereas it's accepted as standard by the Goa Government, to bathe in a sari! Obviously when the Goa tourism industry is selling expensive, long distance beach holidays to modern international tourists it should probably reconsider these directives if it wants to continue to successfully compete in a highly competitive world as it is suddenly realising by the loss of tourists! Sexually frustrated young and old men come from all over India and locally to experience new senses of freedom which they desperately crave in this changing Indian cultural, MTV paradigm which has been available to other cultures fifty years ago! They come to Goa which is not a dry state mainly to drink, take other drugs and so feel less inhibited. And they want to participate in other sordid activities which have put off foreign women from feeling safe and from even wanting to come to Goa as is well reported in all studies on Goa tourism and by the lack of female visitors! Uncle parties, stag parties of groups of 20+ drunken males rolling in one after the other all night long! An invasion of people who do not belong in Trance parties and only come to gawk, some even bringing their family and children with no interest in what is really happening in these places. They have no idea of the culture of the music, the dance, the vital energy that is being created by people who have made Goa an International Trance scene that is recognised by the music world and which is essential to the Goa vibe which is the Magic, why we are all here and loving it; Originating with the hippies in the 60's.

*These people have been welcomed and they have treated the place with no such respect and consequently this energy is 'DYING' as fewer and fewer true believers bother to even turn up any more knowing that if it's not the Police closing the party down at 10 pm then it's bunches of Indian men acting with juvenile delinquent behavior trying to impress their mates from some town in India where they have been fed this image of a Free Goa where they think they can grab foreign girls and go on the rampage and be let loose to bother everyone else at the party with their rowdiness, talking, standing never dancing to the music, being in the trance vibe but instead posing, taking 'Selfies' for friends or the office or school! This is their chance to escape from the control, restrictions of their family and home. They would not behave like this there so why behave like this in our home and Temple? In the past ten years the Goa Government as shown in films, Documentaries such as 'Last Hippie Standing' and the 'diatribe' press has been vehement that it never wanted Goa Trance music parties. They had no interest in protecting these roots, they are more interested in the commercial mass Tourist and Alcohol business and their Heritage of making as much money as possible without any dynamic cultural development. Look at the negative Tourism impact studies. Realise it's now time to wake up and respect Goa Psy*Trance!*
